

Overview:

Baan Dek provides access to education, health and safety services for all people who are exposed to neglect, social exclusion and abuse in urban slums and construction site camps in Chiang Mai, Thailand - be they Thai, stateless or migrant children.

Every year, Baan Dek supports more than 1,300 vulnerable children living in over 40 construction site camps through a variety of social programs that are tailored to the children's needs and ensure holistic, measurable social impact.

Baan Dek forms partnerships with key private stakeholders in the construction sector with a view toward sector-wide improvements.

In 2018, Baan Dek opened its first office base in Bangkok to achieve greater impact that can be scaled up and replicated to support many more disadvantaged children.

Baan Dek will leverage its Chiang Mai Framework for Action as key recommendations for improving the fundamental rights of all children living in construction site camps throughout Thailand, in addition to other populations of vulnerable children who will continue to be supported.

Location:

Chiang Mai and Bangkok, Thailand.

Our Partnership:

We are providing Baan Dek with unrestricted funding to support the expansion, testing and iteration of their core work to Bangkok.

Ultimately, we support Baan Dek to work towards their long-term goal of achieving systemic impact on how the construction sector in Thailand supports the children of construction workers and their families.

In addition to their effective field support to children and families, Baan Dek works on systemic impact with multiple stakeholders including construction companies, government, construction camps, education and healthcare services to ensure the widespread adoption of their Chiang Mai Framework for Action.
